A Message from Rabbi Saks

I remember seeing a t-shirt with two and a half apples printed on it. Above the apples were the words, "Three Reasons to Be a Teacher," and below the apples were the words, "June, July, and August." Of course, the image implied that among the best reasons to become a teacher were the summers off. But those of us who have ever been teachers know that the real reward is not in the time spent away from the classroom, but rather in the time spent in the classroom, with the students.

Some of my favorite moments have been opportunities I have had to interact with religious school students. I began teaching religious school while I was still in college. While on the educational staff at Jacobs Camp, I had a student write a postcard home that simply said, "Today I played soccer. Lunch was okay. SHIUR [our lesson] ROCKED!" In rabbinical school, I had the privilege of teaching fifth grade in a synagogue in New York City. One of my students asked me, "If we don't know how to pronounce God's name, how do we know it's not pronounced like any of the words we use? Shouldn't we be careful with all of our words, since any of them could be God's name?" And since becoming a rabbi, I have had the good fortune, in particular, of teaching B'nai Mitzvah and Confirmation students during these times of important Jewish life cycle events.

Perhaps there's a special place in my heart for being in a classroom. My mother and father are educators, both now retired. My entire childhood existed within the framework of learning and of teaching. I heard stories of my parents' students and the joys that my parents experienced in their years of teaching. Though I may have inherited a love of teaching, I know that I would still cherish opportunities to impact the lives of students even if I were not the child of teachers.

There is a lesson in the Talmud in Sanhedrin 19b that tells us whoever teaches another person's child is rewarded by Jewish tradition as though the child were his or her own. Baruch Sienna writes, "We owe our parents our lives, and this is a debt that can never be repaid. But the teacher who changed our life, who inspired us, and helped us find meaning, also shares our eternal gratitude."

So important is the mission of teaching that the Talmud says, "If a person goes looking for property lost by a parent and lost by a teacher, the teacher's takes precedence over that of the parent. Because even though the parent brought that person into the world, the teacher, who taught wisdom, brings that person into the World to Come." (Bava Metzia 33a)

Our Religious School is sustained by volunteer teachers who give of themselves to change the lives of our students. Over the course of the past school year, I have had the privilege of working closely with B'nai Mitzvah and Confirmation students who each reached a significant Jewish milestone because members of this congregation taught them. Each year, there are teachers who retire or step down from their positions in our Religious School. Each year, we need new teachers.

Please consider becoming a teacher in our Religious School next year. If you don't think you know enough about Judaism to teach, don't worry. Orly and I will help you. Pirke Avot says that anyone who teaches a single section, a single rule, a single verse, a single expression, or even a single letter is to be treated with respect and honor. If you teach, you'll afford yourself a great opportunity to learn more about Judaism and, perhaps more important, to learn from your students.

President's Message - Lisa Pierce

"Good work is seldom done by accident. It is done by people who care." Author unknown

We are so fortunate to be part of a congregation made up of people who care. As I am preparing for our annual meeting on June 5 and reviewing the activity of the past year, I'd like to extend a heartfelt thank you to all our Bet Ha'am volunteers who have worked so hard to help our congregation flourish. From the little things, like sharing a smile or helping a visitor, to the big things, like planning an event or chairing a committee, each and all of these efforts make an enormous difference and help our community grow even stronger.

At Shabbat services on Friday, June 15, we will be honoring two volunteers whose caring and commitment have made a difference at Bet Ha'am.

Donna Landau's tireless efforts to catalog and organize our library collection have made it possible for us to live up to our identity as the People of the Book by having our library at the center of congregational life. In addition, Donna, Stephanie Cummings and the rest of the library team have created a warm and inviting space that many of us gravitate toward on a regular basis. By spearheading the effort to create congregational archives, Donna has shown us the importance of marking our history. She understands instinctively that we all grow in tiny ways day by day, but that ultimately these tiny changes create leaps from one milestone to the next. There is enormous value in capturing snapshots in time, and Donna has done that for us. Donna has developed a structure for those who will follow us to continue these tasks. She has also given us a gift that will help us tell our story more fully to the next generation.

Sharon Newman has helped shape the story of our congregation in many ways through her volunteer work – most notably by enhancing our services with her musical contributions. Her ability to transport us with a melody that connects us to 6000 years of Jewish history and to Jews the world over is a beautiful gift that she gives to Bet Ha'am often and with love. Her ability to help us learn a new melody that opens our eyes to another way to connect with God and each other is a gift that will stay with each of us for many years to come. Sharon's truly extraordinary talents, not just with music but also with liturgy and ritual, greatly enhance both our High Holy Day and Shabbat worship. Along with Perry's inspired contributions, Sharon has added much joy to our community's simchas. We are so lucky that the Newmans have found a spiritual home at Bet Ha'am, and I look forward to singing, learning and praying with them far into our future together.

I hope you will join me on June 15 as we celebrate the contributions of these two wonderful women whom I am proud to call my friends. May their caring inspire us all to share our talents, find a task to accomplish and a mission to fulfill, and make a difference for our whole community.

From the Religious School Director

Orly Mendelson Biggie

The 2011-2012 school year has ended! Summer is here! During our last family program in May, families and students in grades one through six created their own summer calendars. These calendars noted what midot (virtues that provide moral guidance) each student would like to explore and do during the summer. Hopefully, everyone will follow their calendars and even add midot they can practice!

I would like to encourage our families to see the summer as a vacation from Religious School, but not a vacation from our Jewish lives and learning. All students in grades one through seven would benefit from reviewing Hebrew letters, Hebrew reading and the prayers they have learned. I encourage students in grades four and up to continue chanting the Friday night Kiddush. Attending Saturday morning worship services and saying different blessings will also help students remember what they have learned this year. If you ask your child to retell Torah stories, Jewish history, and information about Israel that they studied this year, you might learn something too!

I wish you all a wonderful summer.

Religious School News

Thank you to last month's substitute teacher: Andy Lilienthal.

Thank you to Kerri Berman and Elizabeth Buschbaum for chairing our Teacher Appreciation Luncheon and thank you to all the parents who brought delicious food and helped with the luncheon. Thank you to Jessica Butzel, John Cole and Kristin Schardt for serving and cleaning during the luncheon.

Preparing for 2012-2013

Please complete your school registration for next year as soon as possible. We are trying to plan for class size, teachers and materials.

If you can help us set up classrooms for next year, please call the office. This will count toward the ten hours of volunteer work that each family is expected to contribute during the year.

Do you still have library books out?

Please return any books you might still have from our Children's Library to the synagogue office as soon as possible.

Teachers Needed!

We have teaching opportunities for everyone! We need teachers for both our morning and evening Religious School. Please offer your time; we can't have classes without teachers!

A New Way to Begin Friday Night Services

By Nathan Szanton, Membership Chair

Bet Ha'am's newly re-formed Membership Committee spent its first meeting discussing how we can strengthen our welcoming atmosphere so that we're poised to welcome new members while continuing to make our community warm and inviting for existing members.

We considered a variety of ideas and identified six we want to begin working on. Rather than outlining them all in this short space, I want to focus on one. We'd be interested in your feedback.

We've proposed to the Board and Rabbi Saks that we change the way Friday night services begin. Instead of filing into a slowly filling sanctuary and waiting quietly, we recommended gathering in the social hall for some conversation and light snacks. Then, when it's time, we could all go into the sanctuary together.

This is a beloved tradition at many other synagogues. It would give us a chance to come together as a group before services begin. When we enter the sanctuary, we would have made connections with one another, rather than choosing a seat while looking at the backs of the heads of those already in the room. We would be more likely to sit with others we've met, rather than just with those with whom we came (if we came with anyone). Those arriving at our outdoor courtyard and looking through the wall of glass would see a warm, brightly-lit social hall with people chatting and noshing, rather than a dark, empty room.

We think that, for those in the social hall, waiting to enter the sanctuary would build a positive tension, an anticipation of welcoming Shabbat. When it's time for services to start, the rabbi would begin a niggun for us to sing together before we enter the sanctuary.

Of course, anyone who wants to spend a few moments alone in the sanctuary before services could still do so.

We met with Rabbi Saks and President Lisa Pierce to present this idea. Rabbi Saks suggested a name that he's seen used at other Reform synagogues, Kabbalat Panim, which is Hebrew for Welcoming Faces. We think the name fits very well.

We organized our first, experimental Kabbalat Panim on Friday, May 4. About 75 people came and seemed to really enjoy it. We feel this merits extending the experiment, so we're continuing to hold Kabbalat Panim each Friday evening, beginning a half hour before the start of services. Meanwhile, we'd like your feedback on this initiative. Please call me at 797-2395 or email me at szanton@maine.rr.com to let me know your thoughts. Your thoughts would be even more valuable if you've attended a Kabbalat Panim, so we invite you to try one soon! Thanks.

Mikvat Shalom

Mikvat Shalom will hold its Annual Meeting at Shaarey Tphiloh Synagogue, 76 Noyes Street, Portland, on Sunday, June 10, at 7:00 PM.

There will be a brief meeting and a tour of the newly renovated space.

Board members will be available to answer questions and talk about volunteer opportunities. For more information, see www.mikvatshalom.org or call 799-9257.

Social Action Committee News

Once a month, Bet Ha'am volunteers prepare and deliver a meal to Friendship House, a shelter for homeless men struggling with addiction. We bring in a meal for about fifteen residents on the fourth Wednesday of the month, from September through May. Each volunteer prepares one part of the meal and delivers it to Friendship House any time during the day. We could use your help. Care to join us? E-mail Solange Kellerman (solangekell@hotmail.com) for more information or to join our foodie team.

The Social Action Committee hosted an evening program in May that focused on the needs of Maine's recent immigrants, including refugees and those seeking asylum. Many people left the program inspired and eager to help. The Committee is investigating ideas to involve Bet Ha'am in refugee and immigrant issues. Stay tuned - and consider joining us at our next meeting on June 12 at 5:30 PM at Bet Ha'am - as we continue the discussion.

The Committee also hosted a message-training event by Equality Maine last month. The purpose was to help synagogue members find ways to discuss marriage equality with friends and family members. We will continue to stay active on this issue as we approach the November vote on marriage equality in Maine. Join us!

We will take a hiatus in July and resume meeting on the first Thursday of every month at 7:00 PM on August 2. All are welcome. For more information, please contact Shoshana Hoose, Social Action Committee chair, at shoose@maine.rr.com.

Garden Notes

by Toby Rosenberg

A sunny Mothers' Day was the perfect backdrop for our third annual plant sale. Bet Ha'am members and friends generously donated hundreds of plants dug from their gardens. We also sold a six-foot ginkgo tree, exotic miniature orchids, mint dug from our raised beds and etrog seedlings started at our Tu B'Shevat seder.

Committee members Beth Simpson, Laura Kittle, Julia Bailin and Toby Rosenberg, along with an energetic team of volunteers, made the day a delightful success. Thank you to Cathy Breen, Annette Lemek, Claire Payne (Julia Bailin's mother), Jane Weinstein, David Caldwell and Oliver Watts for their help. Kudos to co-chairs Beth Simpson and Joan Caldwell for great event planning. Thanks to Karen Silverman and Julia Bailin for photographing the day's activities. All the gardeners who so generously gave plants and all the customers who bought them helped us raise $1035.

We saved some of the unsold day lilies and blue fescue grass to plant around Bet Ha'am. The few remaining plants were donated to the South Portland Land Trust plant sale.

In other garden news, our wheat under the fire escape is growing. The species planted last fall are tall in the back rows and the spring wheat is quickly filling out the front row. Take a look!

And the weeds are growing too!

The Committee has set every Tuesday, from 5:00 PM until dark or tired, for weeding. Members of the Committee will work, give advice, and support everyone's efforts. On the third Tuesday of each month, committee members will get volunteers started on weeding and then conduct the Garden Committee meeting.

Some Sunday weeding sessions will also be scheduled. Keep an eye on the weekly e-mails for announcements of these dates.

Some of our experienced volunteers choose to weed independently at their own convenience after getting approval from committee members. Ruth Higgs and Cathy Breen can often be spotted in the garden doing just that!

Karen Silverman and Stephanie Cummings have generously embarked on a project to document the plants and weeds in our sanctuary garden in photographs. We will use these photographs to compile laminated guide books that will help volunteers distinguish between our plants and the weeds that need to be pulled.

The Garden Committee welcomes all volunteers. If you are interested in getting involved in weeding, planting, pruning, raised bed gardening, wheat harvesting and more, please contact the office.

Adult Library News

COME JOIN US

The next meeting of the Library Committee will be on Thursday, June 7, at 6:00 PM in the Bet Ha'am Library. We invite you to join the committee, bring ideas on how to grow the library, plan events that the library might sponsor, suggest titles and authors the library must have, etc.

WHAT'S NEW

We are pleased to announce that congregants can now search on a MacBook Pro to find book titles, authors, subjects and what's new in the library collection. For now, the MacBook Pro laptop sits in the pass-through to the library office. We plan to install a shelf with comfortable seating some time soon.

THANK YOU FOR RECENT BOOK DONATIONS

1. Barb and Sam Himmelrich of Baltimore, MD donated Dreams of Freedom from the National Museum of American Jewish History. Barb is a board member of the Philadelphia Jewish History Museum.
2. Roy Rosenberg donated Swimming in the Sea of Talmud by Katz and Schwartz; All Rivers Run to the Sea, Elie Wiesel's memoirs; Jewish Worship by Abraham Millgram, a presentation of the development and contemporary significance of Jewish liturgy; and The Book of Psalms, a new translation according to the traditional Hebrew text.

3. Margaret and Harry Blumenthal donated From the Star of Shame to the Star of Courage, the story of the yellow star.

4. Barbara Riegelhaupt donated Congregation Bet Ha'am calendars from 5759 through 5763 for our archives.

IN COLLABORATION WITH THE MEMBERSHIP COMMITTEE, the Adult Library Committee participated in a gathering for new members at the home of Sarah and Nathan Szanton. We welcomed each of our ten new families to Bet Ha'am with a library card and a note explaining how to navigate the library.

SPEAKING OF LIBRARY CARDS, if you haven't yet gotten yours, stop in the library, find the clipboard on the reading table and fill out the requested information. Or you can email Donna Landau at dmlandau@hotmail.com. Either way, a key tag will be waiting for you at the library office.

Please join us on
Saturday, June 30, at 5:30 PM
 for a kumzitz and
Havdalah in the garden

Join us to sing familiar songs and learn new ones together.
 Please bring a potluck
 hors d'oeuvre to share.
