The eight weeks of day camping sponsored by the Jewish Community Center at Sebago Lake, North Windham, will be concluded Aug. 23, more than 125 young folks having been enrolled this 10th year of the camp history.

Each weekly program ends with the Friday afternoon religious services. Participating last week were (lower picture) left to right, Duane Pollisner, chanting the blessings; Marjorie Silverman, the Sabbath Queen and Norman Rappaport, reading the service.

A large group of Portland residents attended Parents Day Saturday. Other special events in the past few days included two overnight trips for older groups and two evening events for the younger campers. Helping to make their tent secure for an overnight venture are (upper left picture) Louis Rothstein, left and Alan Zimmerman.

The athletic carnival and field day under the leadership of James Connelly, sports director and the annual water carnival directed by David Zolov and Miss Cynthia Sacknoff, water front directors are among the most popular events each season.

Also two groups hiked to the camp of David Novick at Little Sebago spending the afternoon with sports. Stephen Novick was in charge of these "traveling campers."

Prior to participation in the water sports Miss Sacknoff (upper right scene) gave instruction to three campers.

At the annual birthday party campers were divided in 12 sections and were seated at the 12 birthday tables.

When the campers hear "CLAW" booming from the loud speaker they realize it is not a mysterious code but a suggestion to counselors that groups are being readied for the following periods: (C) in the Camp Corner for dramatics, folk dancing, religious activity and songs under the leadership of Mrs. Merle Nelson; (L) is land sports including badminton, archery, softball, basketball, volleyball, horseshoe pitching and playground apparatus work with James Connelly in charge; (A) is the arts and crafts department including camp craft, basket weaving, felt work, paint spattering and similar projects; (W) is the campers delight, water sports and boating. David Zolov is waterfront instructor assisted by Miss Sacknoff.

Paul Royte is camp director and the Day Camp committee has as chairman Carl Webber, who is ably assisted by a group of over 50 center members. Mrs. Maxwell Weisenthal, chairman of volunteers has had aides each week. Other counselors are Carolyn Rackliffe, Merle Nelson, James Connelly, David Zolov, Milton Jaffee, Wilmer Webber, Donna Zolov, Linda Elowitch, Beverly Potter, Paula Rosengard, Cynthia Sacknoff, Harold Grunes, Steven Novick, Donna Levenson, Barbara Cole, Albert Sibson, Ronnie Drogin, Mrs. Nelson and Barbara Blumenthal.

The camp is a United Fund agency.
