Graphic pictures of college life were presented by a group of local students, Thursday evening, when the Women's League of the Jewish Community Center sponsored a College Night program at the Center. Attendance was good-sized, despite the bad weather.

Mrs. Norman Izenstatt, program chairman for the Women's League, introduced Mark Goldberg, who served as master of ceremonies and in turn, presented the ten students who spoke in some detail about their college activities — their educational courses, dormitory and fraternity house life, classroom procedure and social events. Many told of the invaluable help they had received from their professors.

Taking part in this program were Edward Berman, who attends Harvard College; Cadet Peter Bornstein, U. S. Coast Guard Academy; James Cohen, Bowdoin; Michael Alperen, Bates College; Arthur Silverman, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Nancy Green, Simmons College; Helene Schwartz, Lasell Junior College; Ruth Ellen Cohen, Auburn Maine School of Commerce; and Ruth Flock, Boston University.

Many other local students in the audience were introduced. Among those attending were local high school students who are
