

YOM KIPPUR.

Observed by Bath and Brunswick
Hebrews.

Bath and Brunswick Hebrews who devoutly commenced to observe Yom Kippur, the day of atonement, last Saturday, continued their religious services until late Monday afternoon. These services were held in the hall of Sasanoa tribe of Red Men and were largely attended. The chanting of their songs and the reading of their scriptures which were distinctly audible to people on Front street, attracted no little attention.