

The Jewish New Year Festival, which is the oldest of all festivals celebrated in the civilized world began Wednesday evening and was appropriately observed in this city with services in Red Men's Hall. The services continued until sundown Friday evening. During the festival all the Jewish stores in town were closed.