

B'nai B'rith Aiding In Hospital Sponsorship

Mrs. Jesse Levin, president of the Bath chapter, B'nai B'rith announced recently that the local chapter is participating in the sponsorship of the National Jewish hospital at Denver.

First tuberculosis hospital in the country to admit infants, the 56-year-old National Jewish hospital at Denver recently doubled its pediatric facilities to meet the demands for its free non-sectarian services. As a part of their philanthropic program, B'nai B'rith women of Grand Lodge No. 1, which includes this area, support the famous nationwide medical center for tuberculosis and chest diseases opened in 1899.
