

Mishkan HaNefesh - Prayer Books for the High Holy Days

Are you livestreaming services, but don't have your own Mishkan HaNefesh print books? Have no fear! Given the current challenging circumstances, the CCAR Press is once again providing the use of free flipbooks for the community. You can access the flipbooks by clicking the links below:

How to Use Flipbooks

If you've followed along during our Selichot or Healing and Meditation services, you might already be familiar with how to navigate a flipbook. For those who are unfamiliar, please click the button below to learn more. You can turn pages with the click of an arrow or enter a specific page number in the search bar below each flipbook.

Rabbi Saks will be announcing page numbers during the service so that congregants can follow along.

We recommend allowing yourself plenty of time to practice before services, as we'll be unable to provide tech support for those having difficulty navigating during services.

Would You Like to Borrow Print Books for Yom Kippur?

If you've been reading our weekly newsletters, you might have already taken advantage of borrowing our print books for the High Holy Days--may you use them in good health! For those who missed the deadline for Rosh Hashanah, there's still time to reserve a copy for Yom Kippur.

Please email Chris Skidgel at chris@bethaam.org with your request. Once requests are confirmed, pick-up is available from Monday through Friday between 9 and 2 from our drop box outside the Social Hall door.

Please be sure to take only the books that have been loaned to you and return them to the Library after the High Holy Days. Thank you!

Bet Ha'am's First Excellent Etrog Raffle

Over the next few weeks, the open-air markets in Israel will be brimming with etrogs (citrons) on sale for Sukkot. Not all etrogs will fetch the same price. Depending on size, shape, surface, and the presence of the pitom (flower stem), an etrog might cost from a minimum of 35 shekels up to hundreds, even thousands. Many synagogues around the world sell etrog and lulav sets as autumn fund raisers. Here at Bet Ha'am, we grow our own organic etrog plants. It has taken nine years for our plants to produce three impressive fruits! They are large and excellent in form. We will keep one for the Bet Ha'am sukkah.

We will raffle off two of these excellent etrogs on Friday, September 17th at 11:00 AM live on Facebook! Each will come with a lulav to complete the ritual sukkah symbols. Unable to join us on Facebook? No worries! Winners will be contacted directly.

Two other prizes are offered: a children's book with plush etrog and lulav set and a festive Israeli glass hostess set that will be perfect for entertaining.

With four drawings each ticket has four chances to win! When you enter to win, Bet Ha'am wins too.

1 ticket $18.00
3 tickets $50.00
7 tickets $100
Rabbi's forearm length (11 tickets) $150
