J Street New England's Regional Director, Janette Hillis-Jaffe will speak at Adas Yoshuron Synagogue on Tuesday, July 16, 7:00 p.m. on What Does it Mean to be Pro-Israel, Pro-Peace in Today's World?

Please join us for a conversation about some of the hottest foreign policy headlines today:

- Increasing tensions with Iran and the future of the Iran nuclear deal.
- The Kushner approach to an Israeli-Palestinian Peace Plan and its reception in the Middle East.
- The challenges of fostering constructive pro-Israel policy on Capitol Hill.
- Steps to foster thoughtful dialogue about these difficult issues in our communities.

Janette Hillis-Jaffe is J Streets New England Regional Director. She has been involved in J Streets ground-breaking pro-Israel, pro-peace, diplomacy-first advocacy as a staff member or lay leader since immediately after J Streets founding in 2008. Janette has almost three decades of experience in marketing, development, political organizing, and lobbying on the state, national, and international levels. She has led a variety of social justice and public health projects in Tokyo, Pakistan, Jerusalem, and Boston. Janette has lived in Jerusalem for six years as an adult and is equally comfortable in Orthodox shuls or the Arab shuk. She currently lives in Sharon, Massachusetts with her husband, Rabbi David Jaffe, and their two sons.

The event is free and open to the public.

J Street organizes and mobilizes pro-Israel, pro-peace Americans who want Israel to be secure, democratic and the national home of the Jewish people.

Working in American politics and the Jewish community, J Street advocates for policies that advance shared US and Israeli interests as well as Jewish and democratic values, leading to a two-state solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.
