

Adas Yoshuron Synagogue

Adas Yoshuron will not be offering Shavuot observances this year, due to the current situation. We encourage you to take part in this state-wide program.

Shavuot Celebration Tonight

Thursday, May 28

6:45-8:00 p.m.

Erev Shavuot Beit Midrash: What Does Judaism
Teach Us about Families?
Study session with Rabbi Rachel Isaacs

Followed by Maariv (the evening service)
led by Rabbi Lily Solochek

Beit Midrash is an annual series that brings together college students and community members for several evenings of study throughout the year. Beit Midrash is going virtual, offering the perfect opportunity to welcome the festival of Shavuot, which celebrates both the spring harvest and the giving of the Torah, with some Jewish learning.

Join via Zoom to learn with fellow community members from the comfort of your home. We will explore a series of classic and contemporary texts that focus on what Jewish tradition has to say about raising a family.

All texts will be provided online during the program.

Afterwards, we will light candles in observance of Shavuot.
